CCC Should Be Permanent Says F. D. R.

Special Message Asks Congress To Okeh Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt recommended to Congress today that the Civilian Conservation Corps be made a permanent part of the federal recovery and relief program.

In a special message to Congress, Mr. Roosevelt set the maximum enrollment of CCC youths at 300,000, together with 10,000 Indians and 5000 enrollees in U. S. territories and insular possessions.

In setting that figure for corps enrollment, the President withstood congressional pressure for increased CCC personnel.

"To go beyond this number at this time, he said, "...The additional cost would seriously affect the financial position of the treasury."

Mr. Roosevelt sent his special message to Congress on the fourth anniversary of the date he established CCC by executive order.

Cost of maintaining about 300,000 CCC youths in camps will be $300,000,000 for the 1938 fiscal year. The President named that figure in his budget estimates last January.

In addition to stating that cost of caring for more men in camps would (Continued on page 4)

Homecraft Institute Directors Arrives On Monday

Jane Barton, who will direct the fifth annual Homecraft Institute, which opens at the Shakespeare Clubhouse on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, arrived in Placerville Monday morning and all ready is at work on final details of the institute.

"There is much more to the institute than just being on the platform and explaining homecraft hints and recipes," the directress reminded us, adding "my goodness, it's just like moving into a new kitchen and I must know where things are."

And that is a part of what Jane Barton is doing these two remaining days before the opening of the institute, she's "learning where things are."

"Women sometimes ask me if I don't feel nervous working before an audience in a 'new kitchen' every week, but I didn't. Perhaps I did, once."

"But, now, it just seems that with a day or so to familiarize myself with arrangements, I know just where to find the salt when I want it, and I can find the sugar, too."

8 MISSING IN AIR TRANSPORT

Plane Was Enroute To N. Y. For Delivery In Holland

BURBANK (UP)—More than 44 hours after a giant new airliner with eight aboard took off for the East to be shipped to Holland, Douglas Aircraft officials said this morning they had no word of the craft, presumably missing in the rugged Arizona-New Mexico area.

The 21-place transport, destined for the Dutch Klim Airlines, left at 10 a. m. Saturday from Union Air Terminal on a routine delivery flight for New York. Two Douglas pilots and six others, mostly Aircraft Company officials or relatives, went along for the pleasure flight.

It headed east 45 minutes behind the regular transcontinental Western Air transport which reported being forced to fly "blind" through snowstorms and rain in Arizona.

George W. Stratton, assistant to the president of Douglas Aircraft, said today that a day and night of close watch by TWA pilots on the regular flights over the route had failed to find a trace of the big ship. The Department of Air Commerce likewise checked futilely.

WOMEN SKIERS MAKE PYRAMID PEAK ASCENT

Mrs. Walton Honn of Pacific, and Mrs. Vernon Wood, the former Henrietta Morgan, now of Sacramento, were the first two women to ascend Pyramid Peak on skis.

They made the trip to the 10,000-foot summit Sunday, accompanied by Mr. Wood, Walton Honn, Jr., and Al Martin, Jr.

Taking off from Twin Bridges at 9 o'clock in the morning, they reached the summit about 2:30 o'clock and reported visibility as zero.

The return to Twin Bridges took about two hours.

Auburn Tot Lost In Hills Near Colfax

COLFAX (UP)—Posses hunted the mountainous Colfax region today for trace of three-year-old Billy Arnold.

The child apparently wandered away from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hull, where his parents Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Arnold, and three other Arnold children stopped for a visit after a holiday trip to Cisco. He was reported missing about 5 p. m. yesterday.

Rudolph Buhlman, son of Martin Buhlman, left Sunday for Junction City, Trinity County, where he will be employed as a carpenter on a dam construction by the P. G. & E.

Barts Bow To Capital Nine By 3-0 Count

Jackson Pitches 6-Hit Games; Mates Get One Hit

By BOB VIVIAN
Playing their last practice game of the year, before their league opener with Roseville, the Bartlets met defeat Sunday at the hands of the fast Roma Wine team of Sacramento. The score, 3-0.

The Barts, who have so far held little batting practice, were putty in the hands of Mark Saparovich, who held the locals to one hit, a scratch infield single by Reeder in the ninth inning.

Saparovich, displaying a near perfect pitching performance, received excellent backing from his teammates. The Sacramento team was one of the best seen on the local lot in many years.

Jackson, on the mound for the locals, pitched a game that in nine of ten tries would have been a winner, but hooked up against Saparovich, was that one chance and he lost the duel to the visiting chucker.

Jackson, during the course of the battle, struck out 11 batters, and allowed but six hits, three of which were of the scratch variety.

Sacramento scored once in the third and twice in the sixth, two of their (Continued on page 4)

BOB VIVIAN TO FOLLOW BARTS

Bob Vivian has been named by The Republican to follow the Bartlets through the Placer-Nevada baseball league season, which opens at Roseville Sunday with the Barts against the P.F.E. nine.

Bob has substituted at handling the baseball games in the past and upon these performances should do very well at letting the fans know that the Bartlets win baseball games and how they do it.

Every Monday following the league games of Sunday, you'll find Bob Vivian's report of the game, with a full box score, in The Republican.

Bob's first baseball report of the year appears in today's issue, but in writing the article he has in much the same position as the preacher at the ski club banquet—he "didn't expect to be called upon."

DE MOLAY WILL MARK BIRTHDAY

Annual Banquet Will Be Public Affair At Temple

Departing from their practice in past years, the members of El Dorado Chapter, Order of De Molay, will welcome the public generally at the dinner and meeting celebrating their 11th anniversary, to be held Friday night at the Masonic temple.

This is according to an announcement Monday noon by chapter officers.

The dinner will be at 6:30 o'clock at the Masonic temple and tickets may be obtained from members of the chapter. It is desirable that those who plan to attend purchase their tickets as early as possible, so that the committee in charge may know approximately how many to prepare for.

This, the sixth annual banquet of the chapter, will be followed by a chapter meeting at which the Majority Service degree will be conferred in a public ceremony. Entertainment numbers will follow.

Venue Change Won By Water District

El Dorado Irrigation District has won a change of venue in the suit filed in Stanislaus County by A. C. Carpy and others, and the matter was transferred to El Dorado County Superior Court on Monday.

Orrin Van Vleck Elected To Third Term As Leader Of Stockmen's Association

Committee Of Six Named On Semi-Annual Meet At Ione In April; Executive Board Members All Retained

Orrin Van Vleck of Michigan Bar, was elected president of the Amador-El Dorado Livestock Association, a branch of the California Cattlemen's Association, at the annual meeting of the organization held in Placerville on Saturday at the Shakespeare Clubhouse.

This is Mr. Van Vleck's third consecutive term as president of the association. Ed Payne of White Rock, was named vice-president and the entire executive board, George Wilson, John Yeager and Rufus Swift, was re-elected.

The association named H. B. Scott as its representative to the national association and appointed a committee of six, including Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Granlees, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bamert and Mr. and Mrs. Yeager to have charge of the semi-annual meeting of the association at Ione next April.

Business sessions of the meeting were held during the afternoon at which, in addition to electing officers, the organization heard a number of addresses by leaders in the industry.

Chief among the speakers was Hugh Baber of Chico, newly elected president of the California Cattlemen's Association and former president of the state wool growers.

John Curry, state association secretary, spoke, as did Clyde Harris of the Cattle Protection Service. Forest Sullivan (Continued on page 3)

Dear Scoop:

Have you heard anything about passes to Placer-Nevada baseball league games this year for what is lightly referred to as the "working press?"

Our star baseball writer is Scotch and gets so blue and glum when he has to divvy up two-bits to get into a league game that he can't write optimistically of the home team's chances.

Anyhow, a few passes well-scattered, even outside the "working press" ought to be the means of generating a little good will that would go a long way to boost support for league games.

Yours, until fly season, Allen.

And, since we've opened up with "sports," here are the names of some of those whom we saw at Sacramento Saturday evening for the national collegiate boxing championships:

C. C. Herbert forgot his ticket but knew his seat was right next to his son's, Clayton, so "Crip" Toomey told him to follow his son and when someone sat down on one side of Clayton, why the other seat would be Cliff's, and darned if it wasn't.

ROSEVILLE (UP)—John S. Richards, 20, former Roseville high school honor scholar, athlete and student leader, wrote a note to his sweetheart last night, locked himself in his home and shot himself through the head with a 30-30 rifle.

James Crabbe, a neighbor who heard the shot, climbed through a window and found the body, the rifle and the note.

"It is all my fault. I had gone too far," the note said. "Love to Say and family. Please cremate me."

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

PINEHURST, N. C. (UP)—I am extremely grateful that I was in Pinehurst, and not Tampa, Saturday night when the bloody battle was waged between the St. Louis Cardinals, under the leadership of General Dizzy Dean, and the sports writers, under the command of Field Marshall Jack Miley.

For had I been there in the hotel during the shooting, the chances are that I would have been left draped over a potted palm, with no one more efficient than the bell captain or the cigar stand girl to dress my wounds, take down my last words, and forward my personal effects to my wife.

Mine would have been a double predicament. As a rookie shortstop who worked out for several weeks with the Cardinals, Miley would have swung upon me as a baseball player. And as a sports writer the Cardinals would have been obligated to beat me lustily on the profile. As for myself, I would not have known whom to hit. The only way I could have solved the problem, I guess, would have been to punch my own self twice—once for being a sports writer and once for being a ball player. That would have meant three people hitting me at once, and that's exactly three too many. There probably would have been a fourth party swinging on me, because it is no secret that Mrs. Patricia Dean, wife of the dizzy one, would like to have my auburn scalp dangling from her belt, and my belt stretched out as a rug in her Bradenton home.

When I went to Sarasota, Florida, this winter to report the baseball players' golf tournament, I was warned to watch my step when I saw Mrs. Dean—that she was very angry because of a story I had written about Dizzy and Paul, and aimed to swat me over the head with her umbrella when she saw me. I saw her once or twice as she followed Dizzy's play, but it was at a

SOCIAL WORK MEETING SET

29th Convention Will Open May 9th At San Jose

SAN JOSE—After 18 years, the California Conference of Social Work returns to San Jose for its 29th annual meeting, May 9 to 13.

The California Conference of Social Work is the largest state conference in the country, second in size only to the National Conference of Social Work. It includes social and welfare institutions of every type, and individual members from the lay and professional social work organizations in the state.

Hundreds of men and women interested in matters of social welfare will meet in San Jose to discuss the great problems which confront American social work and social workers today. The need for adequate security, the future of relief and public work, the struggles and achievements in the field of labor—these and many related questions will form the basis for one of the most important meetings in years.

distance, because I cautiously stayed in the middle of the fairway, which is a spot people who follow Dizzy at golf seldom tread.

If the account of the battle I read was accurate, future historians won't have any trouble deciding who won it, Miley. It seems, came out of the fray not only with a clean-cut right eye, but the same sort of triumph. When 15 or 16 of the baseball playing species pop you over the head with spiked shoes, and you hold your ground and are capable of giving an account of what happened, you automatically are the winner. I think that historians probably will sum up the fight with the statement:

"It was a triumph of mind over matter."

I think too, that the battle put the lie to reports that the Cardinals no longer were the "Gas-House Gang." Those of us who feared the men who represent the city of St. Louis in the National League had absorbed a modicum of culture and might become gentlemen, now know that our fears were not warranted. They still believe in "gang" warfare, and their motto still is:

"All for one and all against one—with spikes."

The annual banquet in the evening was served at the clubhouse by members of the Shakespeare Club with George Wilson as the toastmaster of the evening.

Mr. Wilson called on President Barber, Secretary Curry and others for brief talks and the entertainment for the meeting consisted of dance numbers by young people from the Georgetown and Folsom vicinities. Many said it was as excellent a dance program as they had seen in many months.

At an evening meeting of the executive board Mrs. Camilla Cello was chosen secretary to succeed her husband, the late B. C. Cello.

The annual dance was at Diamond Springs in the Landis pavilion, a Sacramento orchestra providing music for a crowd which came early and stayed late to close the annual meeting as a complete success.

The arrangements for the meeting were concluded by President Van Vleck with the assistance of a committee including Mrs. Agnes Rupley, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson and Sheriff and Mrs. George M. Smith.

Public Interest Needs Awakening, States Soils Chief

CORVALLIS—"The greatest need today in the field of irrigation is a wider and more comprehensive educational program to arouse public attention to the destruction caused by erosion in areas where sloping and hill lands are cultivated."

This statement was made by Harry E. Reddick of Santa Paula, California, regional conservator for the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, in addressing the sixth annual conference of the Institute of Irrigation Agriculture assembled at Oregon State college.

The meeting, held under the auspices of the American Farm Bureau Federation and State Farm Bureau groups, brought farmers and scientists together from 11 western states and focused their attention on problems in which practicability and science were described as partners.

Reddick pointed out that land can be farmed and irrigated without soil loss on the steepest practical slopes through the installation and successful operation of modern irrigation practices.

Citing methods employed in many western communities, where land with a slope as high as 50 per cent is successfully planted to irrigated orchards, he warned that such methods "call for an expenditure of money that is all but prohibitive except where the land is devoted to growing high-pay crops."

"One of the most important rules to follow in the practice of soil erosion control," he said, "is that wherever sloping or hillside lands are farmed, they should be handled on the contour or grade contour system, irrespective of whether they are irrigated or dry-farmed and regardless of the type of crop grown."

To develop and clarify desirable state and national policies relating to western irrigation agriculture from the viewpoint of water users is the aim of the institute, said Dr. Frank Adams of Berkeley, professor of irrigation investigations and practice in the University of California, and a member of the executive council of the institute, in the initial address to the conference.

Some tomato growers of Merced County are protecting their young plants with orchard heaters.

FIRST U.S. SHOT IN WORLD WAR FIRED 20 YEARS AGO

Twenty years ago this month America's first shot in the World War was fired in the faraway Island of Guam on the very day that President Wilson signed the war resolution, according to a release by Postmaster Joseph Scherrer. This shot was not heard around the world, but there are official records to corroborate the incident.

The news that America entered the war was promptly flashed by cable to Guam on April 6, 1917. The German warship Cormoran was interned there and orders from the navy department, directed authorities at Guam to demand her surrender.

Thereupon, the governor's aide left in a barge to enforce the official order and take possession of the German vessel anchored in the harbor. He was followed closely by another small boat, commanded by Lieutenant W. A. Hall, of the navy, with a crew of 15 U. S. Marines.

On its daily errand of getting supplies ashore, a German launch from the Cormoran, with a cutter in tow, was heading across the bay, and Lieutenant Hall decided to demand its surrender. He ordered Corporal Michael Chockie, of the Marines, to fire a rifle shot across its bow. The first shot apparently was not understood, but when more shots were fired the enemy craft dove to and surrendered.

Meanwhile the Cormoran had been boarded and her captain informed of the surrender order. The Americans scarcely had time to leave the vessel before it was blown up by its own crew. For the next half hour small boats in the harbor were busily engaged in picking up survivors.

More than six months later, on October 23, the men of Battery C, Sixth Field Artillery, First Division, hauled a gun of the soixante-quinze type up on the firing line near Bathlemont, and sent a shell screaming in the general direction of the German lines. It was America's first hostile shot in France.

But the bullet that Corporal Chockie sent ricocheting across the bow of the German launch at the isolated naval station in the Pacific on April 6, was America's first shot in the World War.

affect the U. S. Treasury, Mr. Roosevelt said "to go beyond this number (300,000) at this time would open new and difficult classifications of enrollment."

The President's 700 word special message lauded the work of CCC camps.

"You are acquired," he said, "with the physical improvements that have taken place in our forests and parks as a result of the activities of the corps and with the wealth that is being added to our natural resources for the benefit of future generations."

"More important than the material gain, however, is the improvement we find in the moral and physical well being of our citizens who have been enrolled in the corps and of their families who have been assisted by monthly allotments of pay."

In line with the President's recommendations it was believed the number of camps would be reduced gradually toward 1500 during the fiscal year. The CCC has established a policy of placing approximately 200 enrollees in each camp. A reduction in the corps also would mean a reduction in the number of camps.

Congressmen had asked the President to maintain the strength of the CCC at 400,000 and they may start a fight on the floor to increase the total.

GLARING LIGHT CAMPAIGN WILL SPAN 6 MONTHS

SACRAMENTO—Glaring headlights, night driving's most costly and annoying menace, will be reduced from 75 to 90 per cent within six months after official inspection of all motor vehicles by the state becomes effective, Ray Ingels, director of the State Motor Vehicle Department, estimated today.

Recent tests by the Sacramento Safety Council, where 2,803 cars were tested, showed that approximately 54 per cent had faulty lights, Ingels explained, and added that this percentage was backed up by tests made by the California Highway Patrol for

The Barts were put back in the garage last night after losing to the Roma Winery Club with a score of 3 to 0, Sunday afternoon at Bennett Memorial Park.

Pitcher Separovich held the boys to an infield hit and that came in the last of the ninth inning when two were out. The Barts just couldn't get started while they were on the diamond and club manager Warren will have to get some spark in the outfield if the club is to uphold its reputation.

Jackson pitched a great ball game, and held the hard hitting Roma Club to six hits. The score should have been 1 to 0.

A large crowd saw the game in spite of the weather which goes to show that El Dorado County likes its baseball.

As long as the players razz the umpire, let me say that the Placerville club had better show some life when you're out there. Talk it up, keep the old chatter going. The fans like to see a ball club that can show some life whether it's ahead or behind.

A certificate filed with the county recorder on Monday tells of the birth of a son, Robert James Pratt, to Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Jack Pratt on March 31.

Many years.
"Official inspection of all cars twice a year by the state," Director Ingels said, "would correct from 75 to 90 per cent of these faulty lights, and those who drive at night would be able to do so with much less annoyance and with a far greater degree of safety."
